Even The Commercial Gazette, bitter tisan though it be, has words of symmathy for such brave veterans as misfortene forces into the poorhouse, since The Georgia legislature leaves them only that

Generous Words from a Foe. Here are the ringing words of The Comcial Gazette:

The Georgia house of representatives will pass through a hot fire of criticism for the rejection of the tender to the state of the Confederate Soldiers' Home, near Atlanta.

This home has cost about $40,000, paid for in contributions by Georgia citizens, and was offered to the state as a gift, to be maintained as an asylum for old confederate soldiers, or sold and the funds devoted to their benefit. A POOR ARGUMENT.

A POOR ARGUMENT.

It was a poor argument and a bitter sarcasm for those opposed to the proposition to say that the indigent, helpless army veterans would prefer the pittance of a pension the state would allow and remain at home with their families. We grant that comfortable, happy homes among family and friends are rather to be chosen than life in tharitable institutions, but alas! how many are there of those who seek relief in public institutions who have no families or homes?

THAT SPECTER OF A POORHOUSE!

Poverty-stricken old warriors would, however.

Poverty-stricken old warriors would, however, refer shelter in a state institution, especially ovorided for them, to going to the county pooreuses, and it is only a simple business fact that they can be more economically maintained in a lirge central home than they can in the local "shelters" suggested for their relief. What Texas Thinks.

GALVESTON, Tex., August 28 .- [Special.]-The News this morning, commenting editorially upon the rejection of the soldiers' home,

A vote on the Confederate Home of Georgia hows the alliance majority in the house of repre-entatives of that state to be thirty-two. It is entatives of that state to be thirty-two. It is not explained in the dispatch what motive governs the alliance in declining to make the home a state he explained in the dispatch what motive governs the alliance in declining to make the home a state institution. The presumption is that the alliance in favor of confining taxation to the necessary supenses of the government, but that, as private adviduals, many of the members will be entirely willing to help in raising the $15,000 a year necessary to support the veterans at the home. It might also be considered that the new party wishes to avoid all complications which, among men of different sections and races, might introduce antagonism to the party or distrust of its southern branches.

A GENEROUS OFFER.

The soldiers' home of Georgia was built by a popular subscription, organized and started by fire ATLANTA CONSTITUTION. It worked earmestly and enthusiastically for this fund, and it so thoroughly interested the people in it that a large sum of money was raised, sufficient to purchase the necessary grounds and to erect a handsome and commodious building for the veterans. Nothing was asked from the state; nothing was done by it. But after the people, out of their own pockets, had built the home, it was handed over complete to the state, which was then requested to support it for fifteen years at a cost of not over fifteen thousand dollars a year.

By a vote of 94 to 62 the Georgia house has re-fused to do this, and declared its unwillingness to vote the maimed and disabled confederate voterans the $15,000 a year asked for them, after the people had contributed for their support. It is this action which has aroused and excited Georgia, and has called forth a try of indignation from one end of the state to the other.

When the federal government gives $124,000,000 a year to the union veterans, the rich state of Seorgia can certainly give $15,000 for the men

The other southern states have shown their lib-sality to the veterans. Louisians supports a confederate home, and by its revenue amendment fill divide $50,000 in pensions among its maimed enfederate soldiers. Georgia could do at least lt is said that the action taken by the Georgia louse is due to the alliance. If that organization has added to its platform opposition to the confederate veterans, it will certainly find no favor in the south. This section wants to revive no war prejudices or animosties, but it does not propose to surrender its memories or forget its obligations to the confederate soldiers at the dictation of the alliance, or any other pseudo pelitical organization.

The Times-Democrat will discuss the matter in tomorrow, taking much the same views.

THE STATUS IN ALABAMA. The Evening Star tonight contains the fol-lowing special dispatch from Montgomery,

"There seems to be good ground for the assertion of President Polk, of the National Farmers' Alliance, that his organization was now addressing itself to 'cleaning out' the Victorial States senate. At any rate the alliance United States senate. At any rate the alliance eaders and speakers are waging war against Senator Morgan, of this state, and openly de-clare that he will be defeated for re-election by a candidate whom the alliance will suggest. The Star correspondent had a conversation with Commissioner Kolb and President Adams, of the state alliance. The third party scheme is not very strong in this state as yet. Com-missioner Kolb said he was an alliance demorat, and 'could never be driven out of the "President Adams, speaking of Senator Morgan, said: 'I will not vote for any candidate for the legislature who favors the re-election of John T. Morgan to the United states senate. I am opposed to any man who favors corporation interests as opposed to the people. I will vote for no man who persistently opposes the best interests of the southern people. The fossils in the senate have kept the south in possession of the "constitution," while they provided the north with the manufactured with the most of the south in the provided the morth with the most of the south in the provided the north with the most of the south in north with the money. Mr. Morgan stood up in the senate arguing for the loan, for the corporation to the amount of $100,000; but when a measure comes up to distribute the lawful money of the country among the farmers, that measure, in his opinion, at once be-comes unconstitutional. The alliance will see that he is succeeded by one who will faithfully represent the people. As for Congressman Oates, the subtreasury men "hate him like oisen," and are eager to get him out of congress. But the non-alliance democrats say he will be re-elected next year."

THE KANSAS REPUBLICANS. They Have Driven Thousands of Their Old

Members Away. TOPEKA, Kan., August 28.-[Special.]-The State Journal, referring to the criticisms of Senstor Plumb's recent speech here, prints the ollowing editorial today:

If these same republicans who are grumbling at Senator Plumb's wise course in trying, with argument of reason, to win the old republicans back from the people's party, had listened to him more carefully last fall there would have been less weepcarefully last fall there would have been less weeping and gunshing of teeth. Abuse and vituperation not only drive these old republicans, many of them ex-soldiers, further and further away, but make them set their feet against any return to the old party they loved so well, make them close their cars to any argument, and deprive the republicans of any chance for converts. The alliancemen simply decline to read shusive republican papers and will not hear their abusive republican papers, and will not hear their villifications. The republicans thus shut them-selves off from the addience when they have an appeal to make. The democrats of the south have been wiser. They treat the alliance in a conservative tone, and they count on getting their votes again as they did years ago. From the fact that The State Journal is Sena-or Plumb's personal organ, and that his close friends own stock in the paper, the above ex-pression has caused considerable bitter comment. The republicans of Kansas will make no compromise with a party whose leaders go about the country traducing the people and in-juring the state's credit. Senator Plumb's policy is not endorsed by the great mass of the

UNIFORM STATE LAWS.

Resolutions Adopted by the American Ba Association.

Boston, August 28 .- At the meeting of the American Bar Association today, the report of the special committee on uniform state laws was presented. It embodied the following resolution:

Resolved, That this association recommend the passage by each state, and by congress, for the territories and the District of Columbia, of an act similar to the acts passed by the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New Jersey and Delaware, for the promotion of uniform state laws, and pledges teelf and members to hearty cooperation, both in the creation and work of the commissioners.

operation, both in the creation and work of the commissioners.

Judge Grubb, of Delaware, moved as an amendment to the resolution, the following:
Resolved, That the secretary of the association is hereby directed to transmit a copy of the foregoing report and resolution to the governor of each state and territory, to members of the general council for each state and territory and the District of Columbia, and to the commissioner appointed by each state on uniformity of legislation, with the formal request to each of the said members of the general council to make a personal effort to induce the legislature of his respective state to provide for the appointment of commissioners on uniform state legislation to cooperate with those already appointed.

The amendment was adopted unanimously, and the ballot on acceptance of the original resolution resulted likewise. Several proposals for membership were accepted, making a total of 236 new members. The last business was the election of officers. The report of the general council was accepted, and Judge John F. Dillon, of New York city, was elected president. The secretary and treasurer were both re-elected.

THE STATE COUNCIL. The councils for the different states and territories was also chosen. The new executive ritories was also chosen. The new executive committee consists of George A. Mercer, of Georgia; Alfred Hemenway, of Massachusetts and Bradley G. Senley, of Wisconsin. The local council consists of a vice president and a number of members from each state. Among the vice presidents by states are these: Alabams, Henry C. Tompkins; Delaware, George Gray; District of Columbia, Reginald Tendal; Florida, E. M. Randall; Georgia, N. J. Hammond; Maryland, Skipwith Wilmer; New Jersey, Charles Borchartine; North Carolina, John L. Bridges; Pennsylvania, George B. Culp; South Carolina; George Lamar; Virginia, Leigh R. Page.

FURTHER DETAILS OF THE STATES-VILLE WRECK.

THE DEATHROLL NOW NUMBERS 22. Ferrible Scenes in the Little Town of Si ville—The Tragedy Laid to the Charge of Two Tramps.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., August 28,-[Spe Fearful as were the details of the wrock of the Western North Carolina passenger train at the Third creek bridge, as sent out yesterday, there was no exaggeration about them. The full horrors of the accident can be realized from no written account. It was the most disastrous railroad accident that has ever occurred in this state.

Standing upon the bridge and looking down upon the mass of broken cars ninety feet below, one's first impression is to marvel at the fact that out of fifty people who went down in the fearful crash, more than half of them escaped with their lives.

CARING FOR THE DEAD. All night long corpses were being dressed and placed in coffins, and doctors and nurses went sleepless, assiduously attending to the needs of the wounded, who were scattered throughout the town. The stillness of the night would be broken at intervals by the dead night would be broken at intervals by the dead wagon rumbling over the streets on the way to the depot with a body for shipment.

Statesville never knew such a night. The dead were never more tenderly cared for, or the injured more faithfully attended. Those who survived the wreck, and found them-selves in the hands of the Statesville people, will always think of that town with gratitude for more than the people of Statesville did for them no people could do.

ALL BUSINESS SUSPENDED. Yesterday all the stores in the town were closed, business was abandoned and the whole people of the town set about caring, as good as they could, for the dead and the injured. At nightfall they found that in their care were twenty-one dead bodies and twenty-eight wounded people.

Nearly every one of the dead was crushed in the head. The reporter drew aside the blanket from one corpse and started back at the sight. It was the body of Mr. Brodie, the Chicago drummer. Death had come to him quickly, and his features retained an expression of hor rified fright. His eyes were wide open and staring, and his mouth was open. Another corpse showed no outward signs of injury at all, while upon still another no marks could be seen, except bad bruises on the eyes.

Each corpse was dressed and placed in a neat casket. The casket was boxed, and as soon as instructions would be received for the shipment of the body, it would be sent to the depot. There were still a dozen bodies in Statesville this morning.

THE WORK OF TWO TRAMPS.

It now appears pretty plain that this awful disaster was the work of tramps. A rail had been loosened. After the accident it was seen that the nuts had been unscrewed and place on a rock near the bridge, and that the spikes had been drawn. A short while previous to the accident, two tramps had been put off a train near the bridge. They were troublesome fellows, and the conductor had to use force to eject them. The belief is that these tramps took up a rail in a spirit of revenge. They were going in the direction of Salisbury, and the railroad authorities are making every effort to catch them.

It is learned that Mr. Sink died this morning. That makes the total list of dead, so far as known, twenty-two. A coroner's jury, composed of P. C. Carlton, J. Stephony, J. U. Lambrecht, George F. Shephard. M. C. Williams and J. S. Ramsey, viewed the dead and investigated the wreck yesterday, but, without arriving at a conclusion, adjourned to this morning.

The Friends of the Dead. STATESVILLE, N. C., August 28 .- This picresque little town, situated at the foot of the mountains, with its gay summer boarders and tourists is still in great excitement over the casualty at Third creek.

Friends and relatives of the dead and in jured are flocking here, and nothing is thought or talked about except the fated No. 9 of yesterday morning. We gaze at the fearful wreck and can only wonder that a single life was saved. The country people for miles around, with all conceivable vehicles, bave been pouring in; but with all this excitement, there is gloom over each countenance that correspond with the dark clouds which are hanging this mass of wood and iron lying at the bot tom of Third creek.

The dead are being embalmed as fast as possible, and expressed to their former homes, and the injured are receiving warm-hearted hospitality.

ADDITIONAL VICTIMS. The following is a list of the dead not menioned last night:

CHARLES WEBBER, Pittsburg, Pa MRS. FRANK WHITE, Memphis, Tenn. HENRY PATTERSON, colored. UNKNOWN MAN with ticket from Reidsville

The total dead now foot up twenty-two, and the number of injured twenty-six. A. L. Sink and bride of Lexington, N. C., just marsink and bride of Leanington, are seriously hurt. Mrs. R. C. Mobie, of Helena, Ark.; J. T. Holler, of Catawba county: B. M. Estes, of Memphis; and R. Johnson, newsboy, are also hurt, and their injuries are thought to be serious.

THIRTEEN HEARSES IN A ROW. Burial of the Bodies of the Park Place Victims.

NEW YORK, August 28 .- A long row of black coffins stood in front of the morgue this morning. On each was a plate with the inscription, "Died August 23, 1891," and the number of the box in which the corpse was placed after being taken from the Park place ruins.

The last identification was made last night. Mrs. Kate Barry came to the mergue an identified the body marked No. 29 as that of her husband, William Barry, thirty-five years old. Shortly after 10:30 o'clock thirteen hearses drove up to the gloomy building, and the last awful reminders of the catastrophe were carted off to Evergreen to be buried three in a grave at the city's expense.

THE FREE MINERS READY FOR THE WAR. The News from Briceville Shows that th Free Miners Do Not Like the Situation. and Are Giving Much Trouble.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., August 28.-[Special.]-Superintendent of Prisons Eth B. Wade, who has just returned from a tour of inspection of the [branch prisons, said today that at Brice-ville the free miners had been acting ugly since the convicts were taken there, was almost a daily occurrence for intoxicated free miners to go to the stockades and curse nsult or offer other indignities to the guards, thus intimidating them. This, Mr. Wade stated, was the reason so many convicts at Briceville had escaped. Otherwise, Mr. Wad said everything was quiet.

Another gentleman says that Dr. J. W. Allisup, the prison physician; Sam Jack, warden, and one of the guards were bathing in Coal creek when a miner [threatened to shoot them. Later the same miner met Dr. Allisup in the road and presented his gun, but was prevented from further violence by the doctor drawing a pistol. On another occasion a guard samed Haggert had three convicts outside the stockade, when a miner approached him and threatened to cut his throat, and then took hold of his gun, but it was jerked loose. At the Tennessee company's mine the miners got in a row among themselves, and the bank boss shot at them before the disturbance was

THE CONVICT MINERS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., August 28.—[Special.]— Among today's arrivals were Messrs. Eugene Merrill, chairman, and M. Ingraham, G. E. The committee will remain during the session of the legisla-ture, which assembles on Monday, or, at least, will remain during the session of the legislature, which asse mbles on Monday, or, at least, until some action as to the convict lease question is decided by that body. Dr. J. M. McFerrin, the other member of the committee, will arrive Monday.

When asked regarding the condition of affairs in the mining district, Mr. Cysh said everything was quiet, and the miners were patiently waiting the convening of the extra session. The general opinion among the people of that section was that the relief sought at the hands of the legislature would be obtained. On being asked how a refusal would be received by the miners, Mr. Cysh said he would not like to be quoted on the subject, claiming that the Memphis and Chattanooga papers have misrepresented him in the interview granted them. Mr. Cysh stated that committees from all the mines where convicts are employed have been appointed to come to Nashville, and one of the most vigorous fights for justice and right ever seen in the state will be witnessed.

Tracy City, Jellico, Rockwood and Soddy mines have already made their appointments, and others will follow between now and September 1st. The committee will adopt no plan of action until the arrival of Hon. J. C. J. Williams Monday. He will go before the general assembly as early as possible, and present the miners' side of the question. He is also preparing a bill for the abolition of the lease system. Local labor men are extending every assistance to the committee.

THE BRICEVILLE MINES. The Convicts Are Not at Work in the Mines

In conversation with a reporter the lessee said that the miners around Briceville were still surly, and inclined to be unruly. "There are always some men," Mr. Goodwin said, "who are not satisfied. The convicts are still in the stockade at Briceville. None are at work in the mines. The mines are being put in condition, and as soon as they are ready the convicts will go to work. They are employed in opening new drifts, and are kept at work." Mr. Goodwin declined to talk about what the legislature would probably do. He said he could talk on affairs past and present, but was no prophet.

THIRTY-NINE LASHES.

A New Method of Punishment in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., August 28.—[Special.]—
There is considerable comment today, particularly in legal circles, on the news received from Roxboro, where Judge Winston is holding superior court, and where there was a new departure in the punishment of criminals. Two negro men who had been bound over to appear at court failed to give bond, and were put in jail for safe keeping. They attempted to overpower the jailer and escape. They failed, but inflicted considerable bodily injury upon him. They were brought into court and convicted.

Judge Winston told them the penalty upon him. They were brought into court and convicted.

Judge Winston told them the penalty would be quite severe, and gave them their choice between submitting to whatever the judgment of the court might be, and being whipped with coats off with a buggy whip by a colored man, each to receive thirty-nine lashes well laid on. They concluded to take the whipping, but no colored man could be gotten to do the work, so the services of a white man were procured. The men were carried inside the jall enclosure, which screened them from public view. Being short of funds, it was suggested that they would admit those who desired to see the mode of justice executed at a charge of 25 cents a seat. The prisoners agreed to this arrangement, and received gate money enough to pay all costs. This is a startling innovation upon the administration of justice in North Carolina, and Judge Winston, though the youngest judge on the bench, has made himself famous.

THEY FIGHT THE LAW. Tough Lot of Citizens in Bladen Springs. Only One Lynched as Yet.

Only One Lynched as Yef.

Montgomer, Ala., August 28.—[Special.]
Choctaw county contains a religious sect led by Robert Sims. The followers own no law except divine, and have unhesitatingly violated laws, both state and national. Robert Sims was arrested about a week ago by deputy United States marshals on the charge of selling liquor without license. His followers, led by his brother, James Sims, swore they would release him, and made an attack on the officers for that purpose, in which one of the deputies was killed and two wounded. During the fight Robert Sims escaped. The citizens, who felt couraged by this attack, lynched James Sims, the leader, and since that time the followers of Sims have been terrorizing the little village of Bladen Springs, threatening to burn it down. Several of the citizens have been doing guard duty to protect property, and they have called for troops to arrest the Sims gang. Governor Jones has written to one of the leading citizens of Bladen Springs, telling him that troops could not be used for police duty, and that the only information the executive office has of the affair is runnor, which comes unomicially. He assures the people that if it is shown that there is trouble that which cannot be sup-

THE CONVICT'S DEATH, Caused by Brutal Treatment, Will Be Tho

oughly Investigated. Rochelle, Ga., August 28.—[Special.]—
The recent death of the convict at the Ocmulgee Brick Company yards, from brutal treatment, has greatly excited the people, and a strict investigation is demanded. The verdict of the coroner's jury, that "the deceased came to his death from brutal treatment at the hands of some party or parties to them unknown," makes an investigation necessary. We understand that one of the bosses and two of the guards have been placed under bond to appear at the next term of the superior court, when the grand jury will make a thorough investigation of the case.

when the grand jury will make a thorough investigation of the case.

The convict had only been at the Ochmulgee camp about ten days, and it is claimed by the authorities there that he was injured when they received him. If this is true, then they had no right to require him to work, as it is charged they did, and if not true, then they certainly should be responsible for his death and should be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

and should be prosecuted to the law.

From what we can learn of this matter this convict received some of the most brutal treatment we have ever keard of, and some one should be made to answer for it.

A KENTUCKY LYNCHING. Negro Murderer Taken from Jail and Hanged. Hanged.

Lexington, Ky., August 28.—A special to The Transcript from Georgetown, Ky., says: At 8 o'clock this morning a mob of 150 men came into town and taking the negro murderer of Frank Hughes out of jail hung him to a tree. The mob came in from the direction of the Peak's mill neighborhood. They came on horses and in vehicles. They hitched at the outskirts of the town and walked into the jail outskirts of the town and walked into the jail.

They knocked on the door and demanded admission. The jailer finally came down and was immediately seized and the keys taken from him. They then made him show them Dudley's cell, and at once proceeded to take Dudley out. A shot was fired in the jail, which greatly terrified the Kendals, who supposed the mob had come for them. Dudley was taken out Frankfort pike and stood on a stone wall, under a tree with a limb extending over the pike. He was asked if he had anything to say, and replied that he was sorry he had killed Hughes, as he was a friend of his, and that he had shot him accidentally. Some one in the crowd yelled, "We will now hang you accidentally," and it was immediately done. The crowd, then fired a fusilade of shots and went away in the direction from whence they came. from whence they came.

A great crowd of negroes went out to the scene and made many threats of vengeance, but the authorities are prepared to preserve order at any hazard. The women were particularly demonstrative, some declaring that their husbands had no spunk and that they ought to burn every house in town and kill every white person.

TRAGEDY IN A TENEMENT. John Baxter Kills His Wife and Children

NEW YORK, August 28 .- The tenants in a four-story tenement house, No. 321 East One Hundred and Sixth street, last night heard pistol shots in the apartment occupied by a family named Baxter on the third floor. No one, however, sought to learn what the shooting meant until 10 o'clock this morning, when it was noticed that none of the Baxters had been seen. The neighbors knocked at their loor, but there was no answer and then Podoor, but there was no answer and then Policeman William Lawler, of East Eightyeighth street station was told that it was thought something was wrong. The policeman went up stairs, forced in the door, and there found John Baxter, a painter, thirty years old; his wife Mary, aged twenty-eight years, and their children—Katie, six years,

GREENVILLE, S. C., August 28.—Wednesday night, twenty miles below here, a party of thirty-five white men started out to lynch a negro, who had been captured after having attempted to outrage a white woman. The man confessed his crime and was prepared for death. On the way through the woods the lynchers gradually fell away, and on arrival at the place appointed for the hanging there were only four white men left.

These were from another part of the county, and after a consultation they decided that as the people of the community where the in-jured woman lived had evaded the responsibility of the lynching, they would have nothing to do with it. Accordingly, they turned he negro loose, and told him to "git," and left for their homes. The negro has disappeared. The sporting men are anxious to find and employ him, as his luck is remarkable.

This left the couple in a pretty plight. So yesterday morning Squire Holtzelaw was sent for, and married them the second time and signed the certificate. It is understood that Rev. Mr. Willingham learned Wednesday night, after he had performed the ceremony, that Captain Renaud had been divorced from his first wife for causes other than the only one permitted under the scriptural injunction. Like many other ministers of the gospel, Rev. Mr. Willingham does not believe that divorced people can rightfully remarry until the divorce was granted for the reason sasigned in the Bible. When he learned the existing state of affairs, he felt that it would not be proper for him to sign the certificate. So he refused to do it.

Collision Between Two Vessels on the Coast of Australia. London, August 28 .- A dispatch from Melbourne states that a collision occurred at 1 o'clock this morning in Side Port, Phillip Heads, between the steamers Gambier and Easby. The Gambier was bound from Sydney, N. S. W., for Melbourne, and was just clearing the heads when she met the Easby, bound out. It was impossible for the vessels to clear each other, and the Easby struck the Gambier amidships, crushing in her side to such an extent that when she backed away water poured into her hold in torrents.

A scene of terrible confusion and excitement A scene of terrible confusion and excitement followed the shock of the collision. Most of the passengers were in their berths asleep when the accident happened. Suddenly awakened by the shock, and not knowing the nature of the accident that had befallen them, they rushed pell mell on deck without waiting to dress. They rushed frantically for the boats, but there was no time to cast loose their fastenings and lower them away, for the steamer was settling so rapidly that to attempt this means of escape meant to go down with the ship.

The greatest fear and panic was exhibited by the steerage passengers, who rushed hither and thither with no idea of saving themselves, by the steerage passengers, who rushed hither and thither with no idea of saving themselves, and so utterly without self-control that all they could do was to wring their hands and cry for help.

The officers did their utmost to calm the terrified passengers, but their efforts were, to a great extent, unavailing. The Easby remained alongside the Gambier, and rescued many of the latter's passengers and crew. Notwithstanding her efforts, the Gambier filled so rapidly that it was beyond human power to save everybody.

Seven minutes after the collision the Gambier gave a long forward lurch; then her bows rose high out of the water, then she estiled back, and sinking stern first she disappeared from view, carrying with her five saloon passengers, fifteen steerage passengers and six of the crew.

Boats from the Easby remained for a long time in the rich with a street of the crew.

Extraordinary Nerve Displayed by a Young

Paris, August 28 .- A youth named Baillet, convicted of committing several atra nurders, was beheaded at Doval, near Lille, in the department of the Norde, this morning. The execution of this young criminal is remarkable from the fact that he exhibited the most callous demeanor, and seemed to have the most utter disregard for death.

At 3:20 o'clock when Baillet was awakened he joked and laughed with the executioners ne joxes and laughed with the executioners, priest and prison attendants, and virtually succeeded in shocking those who might naturally be supposed to be somewhat hard-dened and accustomed to unnatural death

During the toilet pinioning, etc., previous to the final act in ibeheading, Baillet showed absolutely no change in demeanor, continuing his jokes and laughing as if about to go on a picnic. The young rascal positively refused to listen to the priest's comfortings and admonitions and continued chatting gaily until monitions and continued chatting gains the last.

When in front of the bascule of the guillotine and upon the point of being thrown upon that sliding plank, Baillet shouted, "Vive la republique." The words were hardly out of his mouth when the executioners seized the young criminal, threw him under the knife and a second later his head rolled into the basket of sawdust waiting to receive it.

Fighting for the Rye.

St. Petersburg, August 28.—Details of the rioting at Vitebek, capital of the government of that name, occasioned by the people's protest against the exportation of rye, show that the disturbance was serious. The governor reports that there was evidence that a general revolt of the peasantry had been planned. The peasants attacked the railroad officials, claiming that no more rye should leave Vitebek, and severely beat Jewish grain dealers, who are blamed for the whole trouble.

GREENVILLE, Miss., August 28 .- [Special. The past week or ten days has demonstrated orcibly the uncertainty of the cotton crop One month ago the cotton crop prospects were never better in this section. What promised then to be a yield of more than one bale per acre is now variously estimated at 25 to 35 per cent less than it did on the 1st day of August.

The heavy and continuous rains during the July, followed by intensely hot weather, and in some localities frequent showers, have caused the plant to shed not only forms, but medium-sized bolls. This shedding has affected and will make scanty the middle crop, which, in ordinary and favorable seasons, is a pretty sure crop. The damage thus done by the rains in July is estimated at from

Following upon this the cotton worms in their second stage made their appearance, and in some localities they are quite numerous, ich indicates that the third crop of these deadly pests will be in such numbers as to do great damage to the cotton, despite the precautionary imeasures adopted by the frequent use of Paris green and London purple.

The damage that will be done by the cotton worm and the injurious effects of the worm on on the growing plants, will be from 10 to 15 per cent. Thus it will be seen that the crop will be from 25 to 35 per cent short.

The ravages of the cotton worm will make he top crop very short, should they appear in great numbers. Besides all this the wes r the past week has been entirely too cold The plant now has the appe ce of having been checked in its growth and is not taking on any fruit at this season.

The plant should be growing and continue so for some weeks to come. Cotton is opening rapidly and picking will become general in a few lays, which is entirely too early for this section of the cotton belt, as the plant should grow and take on fruit until about r 10 th. However, with a favorable season for picking, this year's crop may equal that of 1890, which year this section escaped entirely from an overflow.

THE COTTON PROSPECT.

Charge in Its Condition.

FLORENCE. Ala., August 28.—[Special.]—
There has been no material change in the cotton crop of this section within the past week.
From all paris of this and adjoining counties the most encor raging reports of the crop are being received, and the present outlook promises an unusually large yield. Leading planters say the recent cool weather has been of more advantage to the cotton plant than otherwise, as it has tended to keep the plant from going too much to weed. It was feared that the cool weather would cause rust to appear, but so far as can be learned, there is no sign of rust in this section. No worms have yet appeared to cause the farmers uneasiness, red to cause the farmers uneasiness inity will be larger this year than CANTON, Ga., August 28—[Special.]—The cotton crop throughout the county is looking fine and quite promising, and the probability is that there will be a larger yield than last year, there probably being a larger acreage. But the discouraging feature about the crop is that the price will not likely exceed eight cents per pound, which will barely cover the expense of making and gathering it.

SAVANNAH, Ga., August 28.—[Special.]—J.

also badly injured. Over one inch of rain fell

A CYCLONE AT NEWARK.

NEWARK, N. J., August 28.—A cyclone swept over the lower part of this city at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon, coming with frightful velocity and without warning. No end of damage was done to buildings. Some were totally demolished. Several persons were struck by flying debris, but so far no fatal cases are reported. The cyclone covered a space about a mile and a quarter long and an eighth of a mile wide. No estimate of the damage has yet been made.

The roof of a three-story building on the comer of Bowery and Lexington streets was torn from its fastenings and whirled skyward nearly two hundred feet, doing considerable damage in its flight. The storm came up from the southwest at a time when the sky clear, with a few light, gauzy clouds. One cloud, somewhat dense and dark, came sailing along from the direction in which the wind was blowing, and descended on the southeast

At Chestnut street it crossed the Pennsyl ania railroad tracks and first struck T Company's Spring Works, smashing a two-inch thick glass skylight, and picking up a heavy gate in the yard and sending it hurling through the air.

Then the blast made a skip and did not alight again until it reached Olivers street. Facing it was an untenanted, long three-story brick building, which was formerly used for leather manufacture. It struck the long building near McWhorter street. First, the wooden steps went flying, being torn to plinters. Then the brick front, for the width splinters. Then the brick front, for the width of thirty feet, went in like an eggshell.

After the brick front went down, the blast got under the roof, lifting it up and throwing it down upon Reuben Frier's leather manufactory, which adjoins it. The second floor was ripped up, wrenched away and laid upon the wreck of the roof. The dismantling of this building was complete. Only a few joists, protrading from the walls, were left.

The cyclone then wended its way to Passaic

The cyclone then wended its way to Passai Bowery street and Cross street, below Jackson street, causing skylights and shutters to fly through the air. At the first the wind was not heavier than that which usually ac-companies a thunder storm, but ten seconds later the volume was more terrific, and swept over that section of the city with force enough

The roof on Alderman Heinkel's big double The roof on Alderman Heinke's big double house near Passaic avenue was blown down. A shed along the sidewalk fifty feet long was knocked over on the Central railroad tracks fully five hundred yards away. The roof of a double three-story tenement house, Nos. 113 and 115 Bowery, was torn off, and the windows of the house were shattered.

THE LEGISLATURE IN SAVANNAH. The Members Are Accorded a Bousing

Welcome SAVANNAH, Ga., August 28 .- [Special.]-The legislative party arrived shortly after midnight, tired out, but well pleased with the trip. At several points along the road they were given a hearty reception by the citizens, and at one point in Burke county, a wagon load of watermelons awaited them.

The military of Savannah, with two bands met the visitors at the depot. A great crowd was in waiting. The military fell into line and escorted the visitors to the De Soto. All along the route there were hearty cheers. At the De Soto another large crowd was in waiting, and an impromptu reception was forced on the legislators. Tomorrow the programme already published in THE CONSTITUTION will be carried out.

CAPTAIN JOE AND CADET MINNIE. Their Salvation Work Will Be Disturbed by Officers.

Chief Connolly has written to Waco, Tex., about Captain Joe Hornsby and Cadet Minnie Bowers, of the Salvation Army.

He did so yesterday, at the request of Mrs.

Hornsby, the deserted wife.

The story of Captain Joe's leaving Atlanta the latter part of July, his presence in Waco, and the report of his marriage to Cadet Minnie was published recently and will be remembered.

Yesterday Mrs. Hornsby, with her four chil dren, was at the police station. She told of her troubles in getting along, and wanted the absent husband and father.

HISTORIC STUMPS That Mark the Spot Where Jeff Davis Was Captured.

ADEL, Ga., 'August 28.—[Special.]—The spot where Jeff Davis was captured, near Irwigville, on the Abbeville and Irwinville road, is now marked by two stumps, the remnant of the trees between which Mr. Davis stood when the capture was made. The spot is visited by many people, who cut the shrub-bery as memorials of the place.

"Jack Grash," as he calls himself, who is now a traveling printer, says that he was then a union soldier, and was present when the capture was made.

Should not some more lasting and fitting memorial be erected on this historic spot?

They Want a Railroad. Cumming, Ga., August 28.—[Special.]—Our people are once more stirred up upon the subject of a railroad to Cumming. Recently a company represented by Mr. T. C. Hampton, of Atlanta, proposed to build a road to Cumming from some point on the Air-Line, between Suwanee and Norcross, or at one of these places, and complete it within eight or ten months, provided the people of Cumming and those along the proposed line donate to the company the sum of $20,000. This amount is now being made up. Half of it has already been subscribed, and it is believed the other half will be secured very soon.

Cumming, already one of the best towns in north Georgia, will soon be connected with the outside world by rail, and then—watch her spread.

RDITON CONSTITUTION—As a representative of the younger generation of southern manhood, who consider it an honor to point to the gallant soldiers who fought and died for our "lost cause" as our fathers, and a generation that hopes to be always ready to give a helping hand to "our boys" of the late war, I beg leave to make a few remarks in your columns. in your columns.

To say that the heart of every southerner was, made to feel sad by the late action of the legisla-ture, would be to express it very mildly. We who have been taught by the survivors of the war that our men died the heroes that they were, and that our men died the heroes that they were, and that our cause was only defeated by overwhelming numbers, and who were taught upon the knees of our fathers to always love and reverence the memory of those who died in the cause, and to honor and respect the living wherever and whenever opportunity presented itself, now find, before our years have reached those of maturity scarcely, that those who would have us believe the valor and honor and glory a that tagett us of the confidence. those who would have us believe the valor and honor and glory, as they taught us, of the confederate soldiers, that they themselves cannot believe, or uphold the doctrine they teach; that the confederate soldier, as they would have us believe, is not a hero, but a beggar, and that the poorhouse is too good for him. Can you blame our young hearts from revolting from such unjust and cruel treatment of the men we love? God stay the day when the coming generation shall forget the beloved, but care-worn and half-famished men whose blood today soils the ground upon which the ungrateful and treacherous men who think the poorhouse too good for them, tread.

If the action of late date by the general assembly volces the sentiment of the people who lived through the war. I thank God that their spirit and memory are too indelibly printed on our hearts to be so easily crased. Shame be upon those confedmemory are too indelibly printed on our hearts to be so easily crased. Shame be upon those confed-erates who had the baseness in their hearts to vote for such a measure. Their action can be viewed in but one light by us—that of barbarity. Our blood runs cold when we see our fathers of he-roism so treated by a selfish, ungenerous and un-grateful people.

roism so treated by a selfish, ungenerous and ungrateful people.

Come home, fathers, to our young hearts, and we will take you to our homes, our purses and to our love. You shall not go for the want of friends and sympathy, if the men who once called you comrades have given you the cold shoulder and discarded you. You shall be worn as heroes indeed in our hearts. If an ungrateful people, who fought with you, see fit now to send you a beggar to the poorhouse, you shall hold, and forever, the highest place of respect and honor in our hearts and homes.

We pledge anew burselves to take care of you, hold, and forever, the highest place of respect and honor in our hearts and homes.

We pledge anew ourselves to take care of you, you who have stood between the firesides of our lathers and the invading foe, if for no other reason than that of your herofism in defending our fathers, mothers and homes and country. Can we forget you? No! If the people of Georgia can be so ungrateful, we will love you the more. Come to our homes and hearts. We are poor comparatively as to this world's goods, but we are willing to share our crust with you. We will dress your wounds and mend your shabby ralment, and "take you to our hearts and wear you as our own heroes." We will try to make your way "happy to the grave." Though our efforts may be small and your comforts be scant, you shall have the best, and you shall be set upon the highest seat of honor.

"The Old Rock College. EDITOR CONSTITUTION-In your issue of the 26th, in a special from Wayeross, your correspondent says: "Since the failure of the Agricultural college the faculty of the university has been trying to unload this old Rock college on different enterprises." I do not know who your corres-pondent is, nor to what respect his age or position may entitle him, but his statement is not sustained by the facts. The "faculty of the univer sity" has nothing to do with the tender of the Rock college for a normal school, and if I under-stand the attitude of the board of trustees, they are indifferent to the acceptance of their offer. Your correspondent evidently does not know that the Rock college was built before the war for a preparatory school, and of late years nas been found unanited to university purposes. The trus-trees also control a fund which can only be used for the education of teachers. The offer of the building and the income of this fund was made to the state in good faith, and without was made to the state in good faith, and without the expectation of receiving a dollar in return. As the representative of higher education in Georgia the chancellor is very properly interested in the establishment of a normal school, and he believes Athens is the best place for it. The acceptance of the offer would save the state some money, and would save the university the annual repairs on the building. In this connection it is objected that the trustees have offered what already belongs to the state. Be this as it may, when application was made a few years since for the state to insure the buildings and apparatus against fire, the reply was made that the property did not belong to the state but to the trustees of the university, and the request was refused on that ground. ity, and the request was refused on that ground Athens, Ga., August 27th. THE GERM THEORY.

Within the past few years a new theory of disease has arisen with the Medical profession, known as the Germ Theory, which has developed into a distinct branch of science, called Bacteriology. According to this theory, all endemic, epidemic and contagious diseases are produced by minute infecting germs or microbes (microorganisms) peculiar to each disease, which enter the system as mentioned in our treatise, page 12, under the heading "WHAT IS BLOOD POISON?"

It has heretofore been held that the unbroken skin presents an impenetrable barrier against the exit of these microscopic germs (micrococci, bacilli, etc.), when they have once found their way into the system, and as it has been demonstrated that a remedy which would destroy these germs would also kill the patient, it has been a great want of the profession to know just how to treat the disease brought on by these microbes. But recent investigations in this branch of science, by Professor Von Bumer-Zurick, as reported to the Congress of Surgeons at Berlin, and confirmed by a report of Professor Eiselberger, of Vienna, show that these germs can be expelled from these system through the pores of the skin. It was demonstrated clearly that the germs can pass, do pass, and can be forced to pass from the blood, and from the tissues through the healthy skin to the surface of the body, and thus relieve the system of disease.

To prove this theory, experiments were made with two men, with a horse, a dog, and a hog, six times in a week-and in every instance the germs or microbes were found in the perspiration, showing that they had been eliminated through the

Now, as Swift's Specific has for about sixty years been relieving humanity of disease in just that way, we think we can but add the result of these experiments to the thousands of testimonials which we already have. S. S. S. has been for more than half a century forcing out these germs, or pathogenic microbes, from the blood and tissues, thus bringing health and happiness to thousands, and it is the part of sciene at this late day to corroborate our theory, and show just how it is

We claim, then-and not only claim, but prove by these reliable witnessesthat SWIFT's Specific forces out these germs of poison; and it does more than that, it forces out the noison itself after the body has been infected and nolluted with it. For instance, in the disease of Scrofula, if there should be an ulcer or a sore, the poison will be forced out through that sore or ulcer, and the germs will be forced out through the pores of the skin; and it is the same with any other infection-when there are no sores or ulcers the germs are forced out through the skin, which sometimes causes redness and a rash, and even swelling, as mentioned in the general directions.

A Confederate Woman's Devotion. There is something indescribably touching in the noble offer made by Miss Mary Gay in the following letter:

DECATUR, DEKALB COUNTY, GEORGIA, August 28 .- Editor Constitution: With pride I claim to be a confederate veteran, and by those who best know my past life, it will not be considered imnergies to the cause and its heroic living heroes The refusal of the Georgia legislature to accept the Confederate Home so nobly tendered as a gra-tuity by the trustees, pained me exceedingly. Mark you, that in this matter I am a representawagon load of bedding, books and other comforts well as many beautiful ornaments made by loving nds for the home. By this legislative action ever true to the best interest of the state, will take up the great work and push it through to completion. Generous people will esteem it the greatest privilege of their lives to maintain the I for one will give $100 towards the sup-

MARY A. H. GAY. This golden-hearted woman is known to almost everybody in Georgia as an enthusiastic worker for many benevolent and charitable objects that have engaged the attention of our people for many years. She is, as she expresses it, a confederate veteran. During the war she neglected her own interests altogether in order to care for the sick and wounded confederates in the Atlanta hospitals. Sharing with our veterans their sorrows, and in some measure their misfortunes, she emerged from the war more than ever determined to devote herself to the lost cause, its dead and its living.

She has, as our readers well know, de voted herself to her chosen mission. All who are familiar with her history will read between the lines of her letter this morning much more than she has expressed in words. They will read the story of an unselfish confederate woman, whose loving pride in her state has led her to look forward eagerly and confidently to the opening of the veterans' home, and who, now that her hopes have been rudely shattered by the refusal of the legislature to accept this splendid donation, has resolved at any sacrifice to save the home if it takes all her time and energy, and her last cent. Her offer shows her whole-souled enthusiasm. She is anxious to contribute $100, probably all that she has saved for a rainy day, toward the support of

This generous confederate woman's action. and the confidence she has in Atlanta's future course in the matter, will touch every heart and bring a prompt response. If our women are going to whirl into this work the matter is settled, and the confederate veterans will be provided for during all the years they remain with us.

The people are going to take Miss Gay's view of the matter. Nothing ever shocked them more than the legislature's refusal to accept the home, because in its final shape home was offered without any conditions, except, of course, that it should be used or disposed of for the benefit of the veterans. The legislature could have accepted it, and rented it out or sold it. To efuse it when it was offered in such a shape naturally astonished the people of Georgia, and they are in no mood to let the institution fail when success is in sight.

Never mind about the legislature and its The people of Georgia will have a hand in this business. They will stand by the veterans and save the home!

Fortune Is Fickle.

A story now going the rounds of the press states that General Grant was so impoverished by the Grant-Ward failure that he eager to realize a small sum out of a little stock owned by him in the St. Louis fair grounds. In a letter written at that time general said: "Even the small sum of $150 is a matter of great importance to me just now."

There is nothing in this that should excite surprise. Many a man richer than Grant ever was has found himself face to face with adversity, and in need of $150, or even smaller sum.

But Grant in his lifetime had more than one experience of this sort. He ruined his early prospects in the army, was unsuccessiness, and at the breaking out o the civil war it was difficult for him to bor row a ten-dollar bill, and more difficult to pay it back. Despite these depressing cir-cumstances, he fought his way out of poverty, rose above other federal officers who had wealth and influence, became general of the army and president of the republic and a rich man. Then, after the Grant-Ward crash, he went to work and wrote two volumes that yielded his family something like half a million dollars.

So it seems that when a man is down it does not necessarily follow that he must stay down. The great Napoleon had to lose a good appointment once because he was too uy a pair of boots. He was in the very act of committing suicide when a friend came to his rescue and not only saved his life, but forced him to accept a loan of several thousand france. Lord Clive, when a penulless young man, tried to kill himself and failed. A few years later he was the ruler of India and rolling in wealth.

The notable vicissitudes of fortune in th lives of famous men would fill a large volume. Bad luck and misfortune should not make any man utterly hopeless, and, on the other hand, success should not make any man too confident. This is a world of changes. Millionaries become beggars, and men rise from poverty to wealth. Strong men become physical wrecks, and feeble invalids reach a vigorous old age. Good men become vicious, and bad men reverse their natures and their lives. The high and the low change places—the top rail goes to the bottom, and the bottom rail gets on top.

This is all sorts of a world.

The Ragged Confederate. The Columbus Enquirer-Sun of Friday, commenting on the defeated Confederate

Home bill, says: The caricature of the ex-confederate soldier which appeared in The Atlanta Constitution yesterday, is not calculated to please the gallant ex-confederate reterans. Where The Constitution found such a type of the honored old veteran cannot be imagined. He certainly cannot be found in Geografic.

The Enquirer-Sun talks too fast. The cut in THE CONSTITUTION was genuine. and that same confederate soldier is as much reality, and is just as easy to locate as the editor of The Enquirer-Sun. It is a picture of Virge Moose, of Dahlonega, in this state, taken while he was a prisoner at Camp Chase. Virge is a living man, and in the last issue of The Dahlonega Signal the picture was reproduced from THE CONSTIrution, with this comment from Mr. Moose himself:

"Here I am in my rags!" The picture will be a good study for those who seem to have forgotten the sufferings of the old veterans, many of whom are friendless and homeless, and whose hearts are heavy today because of the slap in the face they have received from the Georgia legis-

Porter's Lying Census. The total cost of the tenth census was $4,794,196. It was a huge affair in its design and very unsatisfactory in its results. It was so ambitious and elaborate that the people protested against any repetition of the folly. Its cost represented a piece of extravagance which was resented by the

Those who were anxious to promote the eleventh ceusus promised that it should be simpler and less extravagant. It was taken in hand with this understanding and the whole business turned over to Robert P. Porter, one of the most offensive and narrow-minded partisans in the country. The result is that it is a partisan affair from beginning to end. It has been demonstrated that the enumeration returns for New York city are a cheat and a swindle, and there is no doubt that the whole census, as taken under Porter's direction is a republican campaign lie.

But it is not a cheap lie. It has already cost the taxpayers of the country $7,000,-000 to be misrepresented by Porter, and now he is calling for an additional million "to finish the entire work." More will be needed, but here is a steal of $8,000,000 in sight, with nothing to show for it but the results of unscrupulous malice.

This is the way the people are robbed by the republican party.

What Is Money For?

The monometallists and money sharks, when discussing the question of free coinage and financial reform, maintain that there is plenty of money to carry on the business of the country and they endeavor to prove that this is true by showing that nine-tenths of the business of the country is based on credit. In proving this they prove too much, for an inflation of credits is the true breeder of panics. Where there is a lack of ready money it is absolutely essential that credit paper should step in and take its place. This is our situation now, and it will continue to be so long as our finances are managed to suit the theories and conveniences of the speculating bankers, money sharks and Wall street wreckers.

The fact that nine-tenths of the busines of the country is carried on by means of paper credit shows the tremendous hiatus there is in our volume of money. It shows, moreover, the true character of the financial situation. The fabric of credit on which we are relying is the germ of all the most disastrous panics that have occurred in the history of the world. A breath of winda false rumor-a whisper-is sufficient to bring about a collapse.

But what do the money sharks call "the business of the country?" It is the specu ation in futures—the whirl and riot of the gambling exchanges—the selling of "puts" and "calls"—the loan of money by the hour, by the day and by the week while the real business of the country is at a standstill or in a state of practical stagnation.

Credit is a very fine thing, but we see by the condition of France that money is better. The real business of the country cannot be carried on by means of credit, for the simple reason that it does not pertain to the affair and transactions of bankers and specula tors. The banks ought to be the conserva tors of business and the distributors of money, but under our present system their chief aim seems to be to secure deposits and strengthen their reserves, placing whatever surplus they may have in the hands of those who are concerned in commercial gambling But it is not alone the banks that need money. The people need it worse than the banks, and could put it to better and more legitimate uses. Of late it is not at all an unusual sight to see some little jack-leg banker or speculator, or some editor directly or indirectly subsidized by the money sharks, rise up and deliver an essay on the "stand ard of payment." Their foggy minds cannot rise higher than their own vapors. They cannot understand the money pro so long as they confine their thoughts to the contracted sphere of their own business.

Banks and bankers are the creation of money—the result of the absolute necessity f money to the life of a civilized people Money was not invented for the be banks and bankers, but for the benefit of the people—to meet an absolute deman for a medium of universal acceptability Money has been aptly described as a savin fund for labor, and this is what it is. Its purpose is to utilize labor, and at this very moment, when the bankers and speculators carry on the business of the country, thousands of millions of dollars' worth of labor power is standing idle and going to waste because there is not money enough to utilize it. Hundreds of millions of wealth that could be wrung out of new enterprises and new industries are lost because the money nec ssary to produce it is not forthco

After awhile the people will really open their eyes to the wrongs with which the money-power is burdening them and then there will be something of an upheaval.

Misdirected Talent. Edward Stoddard, who was recently arrested in Jersey City for swindling, turns out to be a famous convict who is much wanted in Tennessee. Several months ago Stoddard, under the name of H. B. Davis, was serving a sentence for forgery at Tracy City. One day Governor Buchanan received through the mail a etter in the prisoner's favor to which was signed the name of a prominent citizen of Covington. A member of the legislature also received a letter requesting him to see the governor in behalf of Davis, who was represented as a mere boy. This letter was signed by a number of citizens and the judge and jury taking part in the trial. Governo Buchanan considered the matter and sent Davis a pardon.

As soon as he was released Davis left the state. In a few days the discovery was made that all the signatures to the letters were forgeries made by the convict himself. Since that time the police have been on the lookout for him, and he will doubtless be brought back from Jersey City.

The audacity of his methods and his success stamp this man as one of the most ingenious and dangerous criminals of the age. If he had properly used the talents which he has misdirected, he would have won fame and fortune in an honorable way. As it is, the safety of society will make it necessary to keep him very securely locked up.

The Boll Worm in Texas. Reports from Texas indicate considerable damage from the boll worm.

A Fort Worth telegram says: Farmers from different sections of this county report the appearance of the boll worm in the cotton fields and in some instances considerable damage has been done. Up to a few days ago the cotton prospect in Tarrant was better than it had been for years, but the pest has changed that and planters claim that the crop will be cut short. The worm has just commenced work and it can-not be told now how much damage will be done. No fields have been ruined as yet, but some of hem have been terribly disfigure

The Stephenville Empire states that the boll worm is injuring cotton near Waxahachie, and in Dallas, Lampasas and other counties. On its local page it mentions several planters near Stephenville whose crop has been reduced 50, 75 and even 100 per ent by the boll worm.

It goes without saying that if other localities in Texas are suffering in the same way there will be very little cotton from that state this season.

A New York republican organ says the lemocrats are unable to find a spot on the private or public record of Andrew D. White. Just wait. Give Andrew a political office, and then you'll see what his republicanism will bring him to.

"THE AMERICAN farmer whose head is level." says The New York Recorder, "does not want an eighty-cent dollar for his sound, beautiful wheat when he can get a hundred cent one." EDUARDO KNESSE, of san Faulo, Brazil, now in Chicago, where he has just met, after a separation of over twenty years, his sister, tells a curious, but not altogether plausible story. The family were living in New Orleans when the late war broke out. His father and mother and all his relatives sided with the north except his sister Lillie, then fourteen years of age. Although just sixteen years old he says he formed a company of young college boys to fight for the confederacy. Just before the close of hostilities he was taken prisoner and confined at Selma, Ala. Making his prisoner and confined at celina, Ala. Making his escape he trudged northward and finally stowed himself away on a vessel bound for Brazil, in which country he has since amassed a large fortune. One Year's Work. From The Athens, Ga., Banner.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION certainly ha done much within the past year upon which there is cause for congratulating itself. It has enlarged its daily, reduced its price, bough two new perfecting presses, and, last but no least, by a very great deal, fitted up comfort-able offices for its able night editor, its clever and bright city editor, and its efficient reo wonder THE CONSTITUTION is so happy and bright in its general makeup.

GOSSIP IN THE STATE.

The Athens Banner contains this complimentary notice of Hon. John T. Glenn:

"Georgia will probably have a distinguished gentleman as a member of the interstate commerce commission. There is a place made vacant by the death of General Bragg, of Alabama, and among those spoken of to succeed him, Colonel John T. Glenn, of Atlanta, stands out most conspicuously.

"The place must be filled by a democrat, as the "The place must be filled by a democrat, as the statute requires that the commission shall be made up of an equal number of democrats and republicans, and the vacancy is that of a democratic member. This is why Colonel Glenn is a candidate for the place.

"Colonel Glenn has signified his willingness to accept the position if he receives the appoint-ment, and he will, beyond the remotest shadow of a doubt, get the appointment if merit be the measure of award."

The legislature will have a great time in Savan nah. The Savannah Morning News and The Evening Times say that no expense will be spared to make the members enjoy themselves. They will have entire charge of the city and surroundings during their stay.

Next Thursday will be a gala day for Athens The Banner expects fully 500 visitors on that day over the Georgia, Carolina and Northern road The railroad authorities have determined to run an excursion from Elberton to Athens and return on that day, and as it is the first of its kind over the new road it will doubtless be well patronized. The distance is thirty-eight miles and the fare has been made $1 for the round trip. The farmers along the line have all laid by their crops and will doubtless take a day off and run over on a pleasure trip to Athens. The citizens of Elberton will come over in large numbers. The train leaves that place at 9 o'clock in the morning and will reach Athens shortly after 10 o'clock. When the excursion rolls into the city the visitors will be met by a delegation of citizens and shown around the city, and made to feel perfectly at home. The most prominent and influential planters all along the line between Athens and Elberton will be along.

Says The Savannah News: "Savannah intends to have new and independent rallroad lines to the west. The general financial stringency of the past year has retarded the completion of projects which Savannah capitalists have in hand. Our great port has not as ample rail connections as it needs. Certainly, as Savannah continues to grow, her commerce will require and will support new lines. We must have direct connection with the Louisville and Nashville system, and it is gratifying to know that there is a good prospect of such connection being secured.

Railroad construction has not been pushed throughout this country for several months, but a soon as times improve work will be resumed

Atlanta People Vindicated.

Mr. Martin, of Fulton, rose to reply to the remarks of Mr. Hill, which he thought had been too severe in regard to the meeting at the artesian well. He said:

"I entertain for every member of this house the highest regard and friendship, and I believe every one of you feel the same towards me. But there is one thing to which I must refer. It has been said by the gentleman who preceded me that 'the people of Atlanta had a part in the mob' who entered the capitol last evening. I and my colleagues were opposed to this meeting, and stated so over our signatures.

Mr. Martin-I will ask the gentleman if the press has the right to suppress anything that is news and more particularly, any call for any meeting? The press of Georgia is free to publish public sentiment when it sees fit and I am opposed to anything that seems to trammel the press of the state. [Applause.] I am glad that the statements have been made which deny the charge that the people of Atlanta did not take part in that crowd who came to the capitol. Atlanta's good citizens were not there and they did not approve of its course. As to the meeting at the artesian well, nothing disorderly or undemocratic was done, and the people certainly had the right to assemble as they did.

A Word for the Alliance.

Mr. Calvin, of Richmond, thought the alliance had been misrepresented.
Mr. Calvin said he desired to speak a few words to the house. He appreciated the delicacy of the situation. He would be glad to say a word in advocacy of the motion made by the gentleman from Sumter (Mr. Cutts), but when he looked over the house he recognized the fact that that was impracticable. He was one of the sixty-two, and was himself a confederate veteran. From '61 to '65, he had followed the stars and bars wherever they had followed the stars and bars wherever they led. The sixty-two appreciate, somewhat, the processes of thought by which the ninety-four had reached the conclusion by which they had stood and were standing so tenaciously. There were facts in the making up of the judgment of the ninety-four not known to or appreciated by the outside public. The sixty-two know and commend the honesty of the motives, the purposes and the votes of of the motives, the purposes and the nonesty of the minety-four on this question.

Taking advantage of the liberty which had been used in this debate, Mr. Calvin said he desired to say something touching the interviews and speeches which had been printed or received by the applie. The hurden of some of spoken by the public. The burden of some of those interviews and some of those speeches was that the alliance organization was respon-sible for the attitude of the ninety-four; that gentlemen of that number who were alliancesible for the attitude of the miety-four; that gentlemen of that number who were alliancemen had voted under instructions from their lodges at home. This was not true. The impression was sought to be made that the alliance was doing this work, and it has been further charged that the distinguished president of the Farmers' Alliance, Colonel Livingston, was at the bottom of the result now being discussed. This was unfair and untrue. Mr. Calvin said he was a member of the state alliance convention. He stated in his place that Colonel Livingston introduced the resolution favoring the acceptance of the home. Colonel Livinston did this from his place on the rostram and endorsed the resolution in earnest words. Mr. Calvin believed that, were Colonel Livingston a member of this house, he would be found among the advocates for the acceptance of the home. Mr. Calvin said that there was another thing he wished to say, namely, that there is an idea abroad that the alliancemen of the general assembly vote and act after conference and agreement. This was not true. These alliancemen are here as the representatives of the people and they act in that capacity only.

Mr. Goodwin, concluding, said: "I would condenn anything wrong the crowd did, but the meeting at the artesian well was a peaceable and quiet one, and I will endorse whatever they did that I think was right. In the exercise of the right of petition all people have a right to assemble, and my people have only exercised that right." [Applause.]

Mr. Johnson of Appling—I would like to ask if those people at the artesian well meant to indignate against the members of Fulton or against members who are responsible to other constituents?

Mr. Goodwin—Any people have the right to petition the law-making power. [Applause.] I want to say a few words in regard to the character of those ministers who spoke on that occasion and who have been condemned here today. Of the speech of one of them no criticism was made, and I feel that I can say that the other intended no reflection on any member of this house.

Would Not Let Him Withdraw. Would Not Let Him Withdraw.

Mr. Cutts then rose to withdraw the motion to reconsider, seeing that it stood no chance, and intending to stop further debate.

He desired to preface his request to withdraw with an explanation of his reasons, and was proceeding to do so when Mr. Atkinson interrunted to stop him.

Mr. Cutts, hearing the objection, withdrew the request.

"Ninety-Three and the Nigger."

Mr. Atkinson then obtained the floor, ar Mr. Atkinson then obtained the floor, and made a most violent speech in opposition to the motion to reconsider. His speech was construed as a most bitter attack on Atlanta by the gallery. He attacked the mayor, the ordinary and the assistant city attorney as being accessories to the "work of the mob."

"I belong to that crowd called 'ninety-three will be the mode of the mode."

To belong to that crowd can be a first or the and a nigger,' and we are charged with being ungrateful to the boys who wore the gray. We are even called traitors by men in the columns of newspapers filled from one end to the other with lies. orably—at that artesian well or elsewhere—is a liar, and I am responsible for this statement outside of this hall.

"We have appropriated to these soldiers $100 a piece each year. Was that ingratitude? That is what the ninety-three have taken a hand in doing. And for that we are called traitors and ingrates. With that record behind us we are charged with ingratitude and treachery. Who does it? It is the man who goes through the town crying that we have been unjust to the soldiers of Georgia. It is the newspapers, who publish the talk of those who know what they say is a lie, when they say we have acted dishonorably to the old soldiers of Georgia. [Applause.]

know what they say is a lie, when they say we have acted dishonorably to the old soidiers of Georgia. [Applause.]

"Teil me that a howling mob buildoze us now! Shall they intimidate us now by telling us we are traitors? They will never convince me that I have not acted honorably and according to honest convictions. We will appropriate money to give every soldier a home. But we will accept no little kitchen apartment built here in the city of Atlanta, and offered to us to maintain at the expense of the state. We'll not do it.

"Did they say take this money and use it for the benefit of the old soldiers as you see fit? No! They said we must build a home and build it where we want it. I have nothing against Atlanta. Atlanta gets all she wants, and when she cries for more and don't get it, the cry goes up, 'You are persecuting Atlanta!' I represent the people, not to do what the people say do, but what is right. All these soldiers have acquaintances and kin that they people say do, but what is right. All these soldiers have acquaintances and kin that they can live happier with with $200 than they ever could in this home.

"I say, Mr. Speaker, that we ought to vote down this motion to reconsider. Don't be influenced by the yells of mobs and the cries of fluenced by the yells of mobs and the cries of demoniacal preachers. Still them! I'll not allow them to retreat. If they do, I'll stab them in the back. I charge the mayor of your town with complicity in this mob, because he knew it would be held, and it was his duty to have the ordinary of the county see that it was suppressed. I charge that he extenuated the conduct of the mob by his presence there, and the ordinary presiding at the meet-

Mr. Atkinson—I said that two ministers presided over that mob at the artesian well.

Mr. Fleming—Oh, I didn't call that a mob. It was an honest meeting of honest citizens, and they had a right to be there. [Loud and continued applause from the gallery.]

If there ever was discouraging support accorded a pitcher in a game of ball, it was that which Tice, Anniston's brilliant pitcher, reelved yesterday.

To use all of the deceptive curves and cool ted headwork of a veteran, and then to see his team present run after run through inexcusable work, is certainly exasperating.

Tice can point easily to such an experience. He went into the box yesterday prepared to dminister another throw-down to the chamons of Georgia, and at several stages of th cess was imminent. But right at the ost critical stages the roughest kind of schoolboy exhibitions would make worthless any od twirling Tice might do.

Half of the hits credited to Atlanta were de after chances were offered for three outs. Third base seemed to be the particularly weak point of the visitors. It was through ork of this corner of the diamond that the run getting of Atlanta started and then later on, the scene of action shifted to second.

It was through a fumble at third that Glenn scored in the first inning. A wild throw from the same territory allowed Butler to cross the plate in the third. Greene's wild throw to catch Lagomarsino at the unfortunate base brought in Lagomarsino in the next inning.

Then, to add to the state of things, Jones made an attempt at a igrand-stand play that virtually lost the game. In the fifth Glenn hit a fly to right that Robinson could easily have handled. But Jones, at second, who acts reached the ball in time. Then his hands closed over it—for a moment only. It was a muff that enabled Atlanta to make two hits and as many runs, after three men should

In the seventh, with the score a tie, Jones again made a gift of a run, which put Atlanta in the lead she retained to the end. Turner hit a grounder, which the second baseman Then, with a laugh at Turner, who was speeding to first, he made a wild throw. A moment later he missed a thrown ball to eatch the runner. Another wild throw brought in the winning run.

The contest as a whole was exceedingly in-First one side, then the other would be in the lead, and the issue was not a certainty until the ball rested in Roach's

THE RUN GETTING. Atlanta made her first run in the first. Glenn was given his base, reached second on Greene's wild throw, went to third on Mar-shall's sacrifice and scored on Procter's

In the third, a single, a steal, Sharp's wild throw of Marshall's grounder enabled Butler to cross the plate. The visitors started the fourth in a decicedly business-like way. Sharp, Robinson and Greene all made pretty drives in rapid succession. Butler then forced Sharp in by giving Jones his base. Lagomarsino's failure to hold Chalan's long fly brought Robinson in. Stokes was then hit by the pitcher and Greene walked in. Then Jones was forced out at the plate and Chalan was caught at third by foolishly making a start for home.

was caught at third by hoolishly making a start for home.

In her halt, Atlanta tied the score on Lagomarsino's two-base hit and Greene's poor throw to catch him at third. The fifth placed the local men well in the lead. Jones's muff, Greene's wild throw, Gibson's two-bagger, Turner's single and Coppedge's infield hit did the work.

Anniston made one in the sixth on Chalan's three-base hit and Merril's fumble. In the seventh they tied the score through Waters being hit by the ball, two passed balls and a single by Greene. With three men on bases Chalan struck out.

Turner made the last winning run on two dropped balls and a wild throw.

The general closeness of the score and the excitement throughout were the main features. These alone made the game as enjoyable as any seen at the park for some time, Turner's center field play was splendid. Two of his running catches robbed Anniston of what looked like sure hits and were loudly applanded. The entire local team played nded. The entire local team player

SOCIETY GOSSIP.

Rose, Ga., August 28.—[Special.]—One of the most brilliant social events in the history of Rome was the "garden fete," complimentary to Misses Armstrong and Calloway, of Tennessee, Wednesday evening at the elegant home and pretty park place of Colonel and Mrs. John H. Reynolds, in East Rome. A select number of friends attended the recherche affair.

The handsome home, the beautiful grounds, the exquisite arrangements, the superb music of Rome there assembled, and the charming hostess made it an occasion of unparalleled splendor and pleasure. The house is a stately "Queen Anne" architectural design, and the park and grounds are laid out in perfect conformity. Wednesday evening the scene was enchanting. Situated on one of the loftiest eminences of Rome, with the "fairy lights," soft, mellow and dainty, on towers and balconies and shrubs, a rare vision of beauty greeted the eyes of the observers. Ford's superb band was present and rendered an open-air concert.

The repertoire was full and the most contracting strains of music floated out over the grounds and battlements, and many there was who declared it was sweetly suggestive of the

The repertoire was full and the most entrancing strains of music floated out over the grounds and battlements, and many there was who declared it was sweetly suggestive of the rich garden scene of Portia, or the mirth and merriment of a "Midsummer's Night Dream."

Ices, cakes and fruits were served under a pretty canopy of vines called "Lovers' lane."

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds entertained exquisitely. Misses Armstrong and Calloway, pretty and attractive, have been the recipients of much attention while in Rome.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dean, Mrs. J. Lindsley Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Camp, Captain and Mrs. J. J. Printup, Mr. and Mrs. Hardin, W. G. Crosby and Miss Graves, M. R. Captain Smith Writes a Card-Dr. Hawthorne Has a Word to Say.

The white-winged goddess of peace got in her work yesterday.

The programme of settlement of the controversy between Captain Smith and Mr. Everett was carried out, and all is now serene.

ce with the arrangement by their friends, Mr. Everett made his disinto by their friends, Mr. Everett made his dis-daimer upon the floor of the house, and then Captain Smith published a card in The Evening Journal taking back his strong language of the evening before.

WHAT MR. EVERETT SAID. Mr. Everett said :

To the Editor of The Journal: My card of yes-ierds having been written on account of the hard and offensive language uttered by the Hon. M. L. Everett on the floor of the house of reprementatives in regard to myself, and the same hav-ing been explained and withdrawn by him in equally as public a manner today, I herewith with-draw the card published in your issue of yester-day.

W. T. SMITH.

Captain Forbes's Card. "Bob" Lewis, of Hancock, was re nsible, inadvertantly, for putting the card d Captain Forbes, which that gentleman sent Mr. Everett, in the light of "the letter that

It was this way: ediately after he had heard of Mr. Everett's reference to him on Thursday, Esptain Forbes went to the hall of the house handing his personal card to Mr. Lewis, and him to deliver it to Mr. Everett,

Mr. Lewis said he would. Captain Forbes waited and waited, but got captain Forbes waited and waited, but got creply of any sort. Then he wrote a card which appeared in an evening paper. The reason he had got no reply from Mr. I wrett was because the card was never delivered. Mr. Lewis failed to hand it to Mr. I wrett. He thought nothing of it until he Captain Forbes's card in the evening Then he saw his mistake and informed bith gentlemen. As the controversy and starances were based largely upon the sup-sed delivery and receipt of that card, it was easy matter to effect an adjustment of the ng difficulties. Mr. Atkinson and Dr. Hawthorne. In his speech yesterday morning—it appears hanother column—Mr. Atkinson, of Coweta, ed in pretty strong language concerning he distinguished divine.

The following card is Dr. Hawthorne's reply

Dr. Hawthorne on Mr. Atkinson. or Constitution-The assault made upo me by Mr. Atkinson, of Coweta, yesterday in his speech against the reconsideration of the Confed-rate Home bill has filled me with the profoundest stonishment. No public or private utterance of nine in reference to the action of the house of spresentatives upon that bill could furnish him the faintest pretext for the nilgar abuse which he has heaped upon me. A brief statement of facts will convince the reserve of The Constitution that I have the notice to provide such an attack the readers of THE CONSTITUTION that I have done nothing to provoke such an attack. While I was standing in the midst of the vast multitude of people gathered about the artesian will on Thursday evening, a gentleman approached mandsaid that Judge Calhoun wished me to come is the stand and make some remarks. I saw no impropriety in giving expression to my views on such an occasion if the people desired to hear me, not therefore yielded to the request. I remember with distinctness every sentiment contained in my life and unpremeditated address. If Mr. Atkinson had been there he would have heard from me nothing offensive about the men who voted quints the Confederate Home bill. After paying attitute to the patriotism and valor of the soldiers of the south, I declared that it was not appurpose to question the purity of the motives sy purpose to question the purity of the motives of any man who voted with the majority on that measure. I said "Let us not call this an 'indig-masure. I said "Let us not call this an 'indig-mation meeting.' I have not reached the point of hidgnation yet. Let us call it a 'surprise meet-ing, because the action of the house is a surprise to us; a surprise to Georgia; a surprise to the south; a surprise to the to the south; a surprise to the sorth; a surprise to men everywhere in whose breasts the spirit of true chivalry lives and burns. These gentlemen of the legislature have made a mistake. They have made a mistake in assuming that they will increase the burdens of the state by accepting this gift from her patriotic people, because the property of the Confederate Home is worth more than twice the amount which the state will have to pay for the support of these destitute veterans. They have made a mistake, too, in assuming that the people of Georgia will approve of their action in defeating this measure. I do not condemn them. I would not offend them by the use of an epithet. Let us melesvor to convince them that they have made a mistake, and then respectfully petition them to mitake, and then respectfully petition them to consider their action.'

What is there in these utterances to justify Mr.
Whison in calling me a leader of a "howling

Atkinson in calling me a leader of a "howling mob" and "a demoniacal preacher."

The citizens of Atlanta who met at the artesian well, and in a peaceable and dignified manner gave expression to their views upon a question of public policy were not "a howling mob." There was not a man of the 500 gathered there who is not the peer of Mr, atkinson in everything except bitterness and profanity. No man has ever outlived a speech so offensive to every lover of tents and virtue, and Mr. Atkinson will not be an exception to the rule. His mistake is a disaster from which he can never meover. The verdict of the disgusted public will be that his rashness and inverence disquality him for any office in which he would be expected to represent the interests and feelings of a Christian people.

Mr. Middlebrooks occupies that chair at present but his term is nearly completed, and with the general council of 1892 organized a new mayor pro tem. will be one of the first selections made.

For the position several "holdovers" have been mentioned. Mr. Woodward and Mr. Reichardt and Mr. Rice, of the aldermanic board, are all quantities and it is said that neither of the three would decline the place. In the past the mayor pro tem. has been selected from the aldermanic board, but there is no reason why the council ought not furnish the candidate. This has never been done, but there is a strong probability that Mr. Broyles, of the third ward, and Mr. Turner, of the fifth, may be pushed for the position. may be pushed for the position.

The Theatrical Season Opens Next Tuesday, September 1st, with Bobby Gaylor as "Sport McAllister," in one of the best farce comedies of this year, a satire of the famous New York "400." Gaylor is a popular favorite, and will draw the paying theater-goers by the thouwill draw the paying theater-goers by the thousand. He is a genius in low comedy, and tickles the risibilities in the sourcest and most cynical of people. In "Sport McAllister," he is said to have a part that fits him to a dot, and gives him plenty of opportunities for the introduction of his inimitable songs and other specialties which have long since made him famous. The piece is described as a farcical comedy, but, unlike the general run of creations of that sort, it is built upon original and consequently entertaining lines. It is lacking in the old-time conventional and threadbare themes, and contains nothing that is not new, unlque and fresh. Manager Brady says that it will be his winning card this season, and is paying special attention to the production.

The play will be repeated Wednesday at matinee and at night.

What to Eat and Where to Get It.

No breakfast is complete without a cup of oun famous Rijamo coffee. The Rijamo is growing I popularity every day. It is a combination coffee, so blended as to give the best results, both instrength and flavor. Why use poor coffee, weak coffee, mixed coffee, when you can always get our Ryamo? For four years it has possessed the same high quality, rich color and fine flavor that still characterizes it. We keep it only in the bean, fresh parched, but grind it, when desired. Now, a word as to bread. Our Regal patent flour always gives the most perfect results, whether used in pastry, bread or rolls. Do you want rolls pure, lignt and as white as snow? You can always have them by using our Regal patent flour. The Regal possesses all the nutritious qualities of the wheat, yet is as white as snow, and is ground so perfectly that it never fails to rise. We always buy it direct from the same mill, and it never varies Don't be misled and let then tell you that and such such flour is as good as the Regal. Get the best at once, and the problem of good bread will be solved.

Another necessity in a good breakfast is good butter. Now, we believe that it is known by every one that they can always get good butter at our store. Not only good butter, but the famous genuine Jersey. Our butter, but the famous genuine Jersey. Our butter, too, is kept scrupulously clean and nice. It is put up in one-prind packages, wrapped in linen paper and kept in a reliferator. It is not delivered at your house soft and mushy, with brown paper sticking to it, but each one of our drivers has an ice chest, and the butter is delivered firm and clean. As to meats, for breakfast you can take your choice of spring chickens of which we always keep a good stock, or of fine English breakfast bacon, or of the Ferris or Gold Bond hams, or our dried beet. broiled, makes an appetizing dish. The reason why the picnic was not held be-fore is, that more than half of the members of the Mission Sunday school worked in the cotton factories, and the others were not will-ing to have a picnic without them.

The superintendent and teachers have been trying all summer to get the authorities of the cotton factories to give the children a day off, but have steadily failed to do so up to two weeks ago, when their efforts were crowned

Since that time they and the many friends of the school have been at work arranging for the success of the picnic.

Mr. John F. Barclay has been untiring in his efforts to make the day a happy one for the factory children. He has asked the friends of the mission to contribute to the splendid repast which he proposed to spread before the children, and he has met with very good success in that direction. It will be unnecessary for the children to carry dinner at all.

The Western and Atlantic road has very generously given the factory children one hun-dred free tickets over that road to and from

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. ay on the Floor of the New York Stock

NEW YORK, August 28.—The stock market inreased its volume of business today and fully regained its strength, and as a rule prices were placed upon a higher level than yet attained during the present rise.
Traders made a vigorous demonstration against the list this forenoon, and succeeded in again bringing about a fractional recession after a strong opening, but buying became more urgent as the day wore along and the bear contingent was finally roused, and with an unusually large business prices moved up rapidly and uniformly. The efforts to make a money scare in the fall seems to be meeting with the name success as the frost stories, and the best opinon among the financiers here at present is that there will be no approach to atringency this season, and bankers rely on the present unusually large surplus left in banks and the return of the best portion of the gold sent abroad arriler in the year, and with the renewal of purchases of securities for foreign account: Exchanges are earlier in the year, and with the renewal of purchases of securities for foreign account: Exchanges are weakening, while cotton and wheat are coming forward in increased volume. The end of the frost scare was marked today by the resumption of leadership in the market by Granger stocks, and while Chicago is engaged principally in handling large wheat receipts, there are still left some speculators and investors who have time to take an interest in stocks of railroads centering in that place. Burlington, St. Paul, Louisville and trunk lines were all specially active and strong, aided by a change in the character of savices from the west, which reported more favor endeavored to make so much capital of late sto bring about further reaction died away before avy influence of buyers, and the efforts of the were therefore directed to the object of covering

NEW YORK, August 28—This has been the biggest day in the stock market since May, 1890; not perhaps in the amount of shares traded in, but certainly in the broadness of trading and the amount of outside inerably higher, and traders generally seemed to have andoned all idea of a reaction and to be again loading up with stocks. The first impetus was given at the opening by markedly higher prices from London and heavy purchasing orders for foreign account. This quickly set our traders to covering, and commission houses also became active factors in the market, and it advanced with such facility that it became even more evident how really few stocks are for sale. And while people who sell for a reaction may occasionally strike it for some-half or even a couple of points, we think in the long run they will be losers. This is a hall market for more than scales for reactive Booker. bull market for more than scalps for reaction. Bonds also shared in the enthusiasm. Reading issues, the Atchisons and Northern Pacifics were conspicuous for

Received over Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Private Wire by Messra. Youngblood & Haas.

NEW YORK, August 25—The failure on the part of Liverpool to respond to our advance of yesterday caused a weak opening this morning, though in response to subsequent firmer cables values here again recovered to almost the highest prices of yesterday, and it would have taken very little further buying to cause a good advance which, however, failed to materialize; while, on the contrary, there seems to be a general desire to realize, which weakened values, and the bears, noticing an entire absence of support, began hammering, and succeeded in reaching stop orders, which helped the depression and caused a very weak closing. Crop news indicate no improvement, and we fail to see any reason for the decline; still, being of the opinion that the market will sell lower, we look upon such reactions as opportune moments in which to buy.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Received over Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Private Wire by Messrs. Youngblood & Haas. CHICAGO, August 28.—Owing to the lack of foreign demand and large receipts with indications that farm-ers' deliveries were going to be very heavy during the coming week, the market suffered a decline of about coming week, the market suffered a decline of about three cents per bushel. At the decline there was some export buying in New York and Baltimore, which caused a slight rally, and the market closed heavy at about the lowest point of the day. The fear of frost and the large holdings of September and October corn by a few wealthy speculators has kept the corn market in a nervous condition for several days, and a change in the wind from northwest to southerly, causing a rising temperature throughout the entire corn belt, was too much for holders and too great a temptation for the bears to standidly by watching the large receipts and the warm south wind, without trying to increase their fortunes by selling corn. A warm spell is now the probable thing, and farmers believing that they are going to raise a large crop will undoubtedly dispose of their old corn.

Should it come to the market in such large quantities as the present receipts would indicate, holders of October contracts will not find it very clear salling. Receipts of oats are becoming very large. The market today was very heavy, closing weak with a downward tendency.

Holders of September pork were free sellers all day.

The market was well sustained by buyers of the cash product, and considering the decline in grain and the general weakness about the board, we would call the market strong. Lard and ribs are particularly in good

CHICAGO. August 2.—The bears in wheat and corn corn had their innings today. Those in wheat made a dash at the market at the opening, and were encouraged by the news which came to hand in the course of the session to follow it with a succession of heavy rushes, and prices closed 2% c lower than they did yesterday.

BAILROAD MEN. Scial Order of General Passenger Agent Taylor—A Novel Way to Advertise. Prominent Railroad Men Here.

Order 865, issued by James L. Taylor, general sight agent of the Richmond and Danville stem, officially announces the following changes:

W. A. Turk is appointed assistant general passenger agent, with office at Charlotte, N. C.
S. H. Hardwick is appointed assistant general passenger agent, with office at Sarannah. Mr. Hardwick will have charge of Mr. L. S. Brown is appointed assistant meral passenger agent, with department mee at Washington, D. C.

The order also announces the following seignations of division passenger agents: C. B. Bonner, of the Virginia Midland; W. A. Winburn, of the Western North Carolina; D. Cardwell, of the South Carolina and Columbia and Greenville railways; L. L. McCleskey, of the Richmond and Danville; E. T. Charl the Central; W. J. Craig, of the Port Royal and Augusta and Port Royal and Western North Carolina; D. H. Blythewood, of the

Of the above list the following gentlemen resigned to take other places: W. J. Craig, division passenger agent at Columbus, Ga.; L. L. McClesky, general agent at Atlanta; D. Oardwell, division passenger agent at Colum-Ma, S. C., and C. M. Borum, division passener agent at Lynchburg, Va.

In circular 864 Mr. Taylor announces the renoval of his offices here after September 1st.

Mr. W. A. Moody has been appointed south-western freight agent, with office at Colum-bus, and Mr. M. B. Suber, formerly traveling passenger agent of the Central, gots the same

The annual convention of roadmasters will meet at Minneapolis, Minn., on September 8th. Mr. H. W. Reed, of Savannah, roadster of the Savannah, Florida and Western has prepared a very interesting paper on the "Preservation of Crossties," which he will read before the convention.

Mr. W. H. Taylor, chief clerk of Mr. S. H. Hardwick, general passenger agent of the Georgia Pacific, was in the city yesterday for ashort while. He returned to Birmingham Here's a novel plan to advertise, and it was evolved by the fertile brain of Captain W. G. Raoul, formerly of the Central railroad, but now president of the Mexican Central railway: Instead of the usual map and pamphlet used to advertise a railroad, or any section of country located on its line, the Mexican Central railway have had thousands of copies of a novel printed, which they distribute as advertising matter. The novel is neatly and attractively gotten up, and the only reference to the Mexican Central railway is found on its covers. It is a story of life in Mexico, and was written expressly for the purpose by Christian Reid, the novelist. It contains about two hundred pages, and as an advertising scheme is certainly successful.

Mr. Theodore Wells, of Savannah, car accountant of the Central railroad, is in the city.

Superintendent A. C. Craig, of the Macon and Northern, with his official staff, will leave Macon on September 1st for Asheville, N. C.

The smiling face of Alf Vernoy was missed from the Georgia Pacific office yesterday, for Mr. Vernoy was quite sick at his home. His many friends hope to see him up soon.

Freight Agent C. B. Wilburn, of the Georgia Southern and Florida, was married seterday to Miss Ibbie Prince, of Americus. The couple left at once for an extended tour of the north and east.

Mr. S. H. Hardwick passed through Atlanta resterday on his way to Washington, D. C., where he has gone on business.

Mr. Julian A. Hall, first assistant to the chief engineer of the Richmond and Danville, and son of Treasurer John W. Hall, will arrive in the city from Washington today.

Chief Engineer Channing M. Bolton, of the Sichmond and Danville, returned to Washngton yesterday, preparatory to bringing his lepartment here Sunday. The vestibule limited brings numbers of Mr. A. A. Sharpe, superintendent of the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas railway, was in Atlanta yesterday. He returned to Memphis last evening.

It was said yesterday that the terrible accident on the Western North Carolina railroad was not due to spreading track, as was reperted, but to a deliberate and villainous plot to wreck the train. The rumor said that forty feet of rail had been taken out, and that is what caused the fatal plunge.

LAMB WAS A BRUTE.

Se Whipped His Wife and Then Skipped the Town.

Columbus, Ga., August 28.—[Special.]—Sam C. Lamb, who married Miss Bettie Jackson, a factory operative, about six months ago, has skipped to parts unknown. For a time they appeared to live very happlly, but before two months had elapsed, the young wife made a complaint to some friends that her husband was mistreating her; that he had whipped her with a strap. Several persons talked with Lamb and he promised not to do so any more, but about two weeks ago he again whipped his wife until neighbors were attracted by her cries. The wife again complained and the officers kept an eye out for Lamb, and were to have arrested him on sight, but it was discovered Wednesday afterneon that he had bought a railroad ticket to Birmingham, and had left by the noon train. The wife, who is but twenty years of age, said to an Enquirer-Sun man last night: "I am glad he has gone. He never treated me right, and more than a dozen times he whipped me like a dog. You see this mark? That was made by a lick he struck me." Across the woman's neck was a red welt six inches long.
"I shall return to my family in Augusta,"

The Brethren Have Him Arrested but Afterwards Grow Sorry for Him.

WAYCROSS, Ga., August 28.—[Special.]—
Habakuk is the name of a small colored church near Duke, Ga., where the brethren draw imaginary lines, each division representing the peculiar views of a cetrain set. The line separating the pulpit and a few of the front separating the pulpit and a few of the front pews from the rest of the church is called the "bounds of the church."

On this particular occasion they were holding a "'sperience meetin'." Brother Givins had just finished with a long prayer, and Sister had just finished with a long prayer, and Sister Johnsing was in the act of giving her 'sperience, when Brother William Rains came in and sat outside the "bounds of the church." This being against the rules, several of the brethren went to Brother Rains and tried to persuade him to come within the bounds. This enraged Brother Rains, and he became very unruly, and declared that they had no right to "divide up the church," and, said he, "I'll spill all er my blood on dis floor 'fore I'll come in dare."

At this the preacher remarked:
"Put dat brudder out; he ain't hab no re-

The brethren were about to proceed, when they thought it best to have him arrested for "sturbin' public worshin" and a warrant was "'sturbin' public worship," and a warrant was taken out and the brother arrested and brought before Judge Wright.

After hearing the case the judge offered to dismiss it if Rains would pay the costs. Rains had no money, and the brethren who caused his arrest grew sorry for him, took up a collection. tion among themselves, paid the fine, and bade their unwary brother to go his way and Woodbury, Ga., August 28.—[Special.]—One of our citizens visited Atlanta last week and took in the town and its sights. While there he found that the home pin market was too high and accordingly invested a sum of money in papers of these useful little articles. But somewhere in his pereginations about the city (he thinks at the carshed) he fell into the hands of thieves, who wickedly, and without the fear of the law before their eyes, picked his pocket of all his pins and other articles and sent him home poor in pins but rich in experience.

DENNARD, Ga., August 28.—[Special.]—The recent narrow escape of Dennard from becoming the scene of a disastrous configration by the communication of fire to the cotton in the ginhouse recalls the fact that a peculiar fatality has followed the Houston factory. The factory building has been burned to ashes twice, besides two fine residences built or owned by proprietors of the factory property.

BOTTLERS OF THE FAMOUS Milwaukee Lager Beer. AMNUAL CAPACITY 1.500.000 BARRELS

OUR method of bottling beer is the only and the best way for the simple reason that the beer goes direct from the cask to the bottle. Our brewery is the only one in the United States that conveys the beer direct from the storage cellars through an underground pipe line to the bottling department, where it is bottled without once being exposed to the open air and its impurities. It is thus kept at the same low temperature of the storage cellars all the time. A recent act of Congress allows us to operate a Pipe Line between our Brewery and our Bottling House. This great innovation enables the Pabst Brewing company, the largest establishment of its kind in the world, to furnish the public bottled beer for family or table use which contains as much natural life as a glass drawn from a freshly tapped barrel. Visitors to Milwaukee are cordially invited to inspect the operation of our new line. THE BOTTLED BEERS OF THIS BREWERY ARE SOLD ALL OVER THE CIVILIZED WORLD. Agencies in All the Leading Cities.

Our Most Celebrated Brands are "Bavarian," "Export," "Bohemian," "Select." "Hofbræu." and the World-Renowned Concentrated Extract of Maltand Hops, the "Best Tonic."

The BEER of the PABST BREWING COMPANY is the FAVORITE BEVERAGE at all the LEADING HOTELS and SUMMER RESORTS in AMERICA.

It was reported in the street yesterday evenng that the firm of Austin & Boylston was mor grew out of the fact that the firm had filed for record in the office of the clerk of the superior court a deed transferringito Mrs. Hester D. Boylstoni property valued at $25,-

THE TERMS OF THE CONVEYANCE,

The firm transfers and conveys to Mrs. oylston all the stock of rough and dressed lumber and building material of every kind, warehouse, some sheds, an office building, an office safe, office furniture, all being now in mber yard at the corner of Butler and

In addition to the property|specified above, a transfer is made of an unexpired lease by the Georgia Railroad Company of four wag one horse and eight mules, the aggregate value of which is about three thousand dollars. The firm also transfers accounts amounting to $23,543.79. Most of these are small, the largest being one due by the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad of $2,105.57. There are on the tabulated list more than a dred small debtors. In the deed the makers aver that they con vey the above property to secure payment of a number of notes to Mrs. Boylston. These are enumerated as follows: One note for $25,000 another for $6,800; another for $15,000; two notes for $262, and two for $262.50. These will mature at various dates between now and next Christmas.

The members of the firm say that their only object in making the transfer is to secure the

TALKED ABOUT IN THE STREETS. As soon as it became known that this deed had been recorded there was a ripple of excitement in business circles, and the matter was the theme of conversation among lumber dealers all over the city.

A gentleman who is thoroughly familiar with all the details of the firm's business was asked what this heavy mortgage portended, and he replied: "It does not, I think, mean anything serions. It simply secures Mrs. Boylston, the mother of one of the partners. This lady has advanced large sums at various times, as has also Mrs. Austin, the other part ner's mother. These ladies possess consi able means, and have generously come to the assistance of their sons in emergencies. It is but natural for the firm to protect its best friend. Another point I want to make is this: The lumber business has been in a deplorable condition for the past three months, and these enterprising and worthy ung men, in common with all others in the siness, have suffered severely, and may now feel the stringency of the money market. They have on hand a great deal of manufacred lumber, for which there is not now, nor has there been for the last ninety days, any and. They are forced to carry this big stock. That the firm is perfectly solvent, I have not the beginning of a doubt, and that it will pull through I feel confident. There are no more estimable young men in Atlanta than these lumber dealers, and they deserve to suc-

When the Dobbs Lumber Company dissolved last year, Messrs. Thomas H. Austin and Alfred D. Boylston formed a new firm under the name of "Austin & Boylston, wholesale and retail dealers in long-leaf yelw pine lumber, laths, shingles, flooring ceiling, weather-boarding and framing, sash, doors, blinds and builders' hardware."

From the start they were prosperous, and their business expanded rapidly, until the financial depression began to affect it. To this firm was awarded the contract for building Soldiers' Home, its bid of $22,000 being iderably smaller than any other sent in The members of the firm performed in a per-fectly satisfactory manner their part of the tract and lost a clean seven thousand dol-

Then came a number of suits against then at the summer term of the city court. M. Perry DeLeon sued them for $6,000.

Mr. Austin proposed to offset this claim with one against the plaintiff, who proved that the Mr Angtin advanced him was swal lowed in cotton futures, and the court outlawed the counter claim because it was a gambling igation according to the statutes. The jury nd for the plaintiff, and judgment for $6,00 and interest was rendered against the defend-

Two days later a damage suit for $10,000 was tried, and the firm of Dobbs & Co., which included Austin & Boylston, was mulcted in the sum of $2,500 and costs.

THEY WILL PULL THROUGH. These heavy judgments, coming in the very ullest time of the year, helped to cripple the firm; but the energetic young men were not dismayed, and they redoubled their efforts to succeed. They have hosts of friends who believe they will overcome all obstructions and emerge from their present difficulties victors. Their standing in financial circles has always been excellent.
"We have assets more than double all our liabilities, and are abundantly able to pull through," say the members of the firm.

The lumber men say they place implicit confidence in the firm, and are satisfied there

TASCOTT'S DISCOVERER.

AN ALABAMA LUNATIC THE LATEST

nd Chase to Discover the Assassi of Old Man Snell-How a News-paper Was Taken In.

FLORENCE, Ala., August 28.—[Special.]—Barton Whitsett, a former resident of this place, has written a letter to the Bonfield de-tective agency, of Chicago, saying that he has discovered the whereabouts of Tascot, the murderer of A. J. Snell, of that city.

But little attention will be paid to Whitsett's claim when it becomes known that he is an inmate of an insane asylum. Whitsett's letter was given great prominence in a Chicago paper. Now comes the sequel.
Whitsett, the alleged discoverer of Tascott, was for several years the manager of the North Alabama Plumbing Company, of this city. About six months ago it became evident to his friends that he was losing his reason. Atten-tion was first called to his diseased mind through letters which he wrote to prominent people. In these letters he made the mos extravagant claims, saying in one that he was a noted detective, and in another that he was Jack the Ripper. But it was not until he walked into a crowded parlor and in a tragic manner announced himself as Christ that he was sent to an asylum. He has been for several months in the hospital for the insane at Tuscaloosa, Ala., and it was from that place he wrote his now famous letter.

Attention was called to Whitsett's letter here by a marked copy of the paper being sent to a prominent young newspaper man of this city with the advice to "keep quiet, old boy, they will never find you," signed, "G. A." The wrapper bore the postmark of Ravens wood, Ill. This unknown confidant evidently swallows the tale of Whitsett and gives him credit for really believing that he has found Tascott imprisoned in a gold mine in Central America, at the same time retaining his own suspicions of the real identity of the young editor here. This young man, in fact, ha never been to Chicago in his life; consequently he cannot be Tascott in disguise as the sender evidently thinks.

It may be of interest to the officers of Chicago to know that the alleged discover of Tas-cott has not seen the outside of a lunatic asylum for over six months.

The Flend Who Incinerated Hannah Grice

The Fiend Who Incinerated Hannah Grice May Yet Be Caught.

McDonough, Ga., August 28.—[Special.]—
The burning to death of Hannah Grice, colored, which was reported in The Constitution, was undoubtedly one of the foulest murders known to the catalogue of shocking crimes, which it seems that nothing human could have the heart to commit. It caused a feeling of horror throughout the community, some of the colored people being highly wrought up, and if the guilt is fastened on any one no mercy will be shown him.

Suspicion points the finger, and our faithful sheriff will ferret out the case if possible.

No such human monstrosity should go unhung, if such there be living. It is rumored that the sheriff has struck a hot trail, and there is no doubt that the guilty party will soon be brought to justice.

soon be brought to justice.

The Rains in Terrell. Dawson, Ga., August 28.—[Special.]—The continued rains are doing great damage to the cotton crop, as a large portion of it is now open in the fields. Sheriff D. K. Christie states that at least half of the cotton crop of Terrell county is now open and that the crop is far below an average. At the present low price of cotton, it is very difficult to get negroes to yield it out as they refuse to work where to pick it out, as they refuse to work where they are already in debt to their employers. This is especially the case with croppers, as they see it will take their part of the crop te pay for the advances already made by their landlords. Cotton is being marketed very rapidly, as our town has received already between five hundred and one thousand bales.
